

As an average citizen, I want to voice my opinion that Congress and the FCC should stop media deregulation and work to make the media diverse, competitive, balanced, and fair. The options that are available to people over the airwaves today are already extremely limited and superficial. Our government needs to stop this trend of dumbing down American society by promoting diverse and competitive broadcasting rather than limiting it.